Like to do Your Own Computerized Literature Searching?

A short introduction to the use of end-user search systems for searching bibliographic indexes through personal computers or terminals is being offered to faculty and support staff by the University Library at the beginning of November.

The program is in two parts.

First is an introductory lecture describing the computerized search services currently available, and how researchers can gain access to them. The mechanics of formulating and executing searches will be outlined, and participants are invited to bring their research problems to the lecture.

The second part of the program is a lab session in which participants will gain hands-on experience of the systems by executing a search on a topic of their choice.

The lectures are offered on Monday, 2 November, and again on Tuesday, 3 November, 2 to 4 p.m., Cameron Library classroom 1-20F. After the lecture, participants will sign up for one of the lab sessions which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, 3, 4 and 5 November, 6 to 9 pm, CAB 453.

To register, call Rose Schriber at 432-5544 (Cameron). Registration is limited to a maximum of 40 at each lecture. There is no fee for attendance. □

Sometimes, One Write Can Make a Wrong . . .

Like most large institutions, a university does a lot of copying. It photocopies, dubs to cassette and downloads to tape millions of words, illustrations and charts in the course of a year.

"We tend to assume many of these resources are free," Peter Lown told a University seminar on copyright law (19 October). "The truth may be that their owner hasn't the resources to sue you."

That too, is changing. A University of British Columbia history student recently sued a west coast publisher who reproduced parts of his master's thesis without permission. A prairie dramatist won her 1984 case against a television station's "maladaptation" of one of her plays.

But maybe the greatest change is the growing collective consciousness of "creators" in Canada. Guilds of writers, associations of professional photographers, and artist-run art galleries are examining closely the ways in which copying machines affect their livelihood.

The University is currently working on a policy statement on copyright, Dr. Lown told his audience, drawn from University and local college staffs. That policy will be "not a confession and yet not an acquiescence," he said. (Dr. Lown chairs that policy committee.)

Meanwhile, Canada's proposed new copyright law and its "moral rights of creators" lies becalmed in Ottawa. The important second part of the bill may be introduced early in the new year, says Dr. Lown,

"but it could also die on the Order Paper." To ensure that this country's phonograph-era copyright law is brought into the post-computer age will then require "a re-assignment of priorities," he says. With a federal election on the horizon in 1988, increased legal power for Canada's creators is hanging in a precarious political balance, once again. □

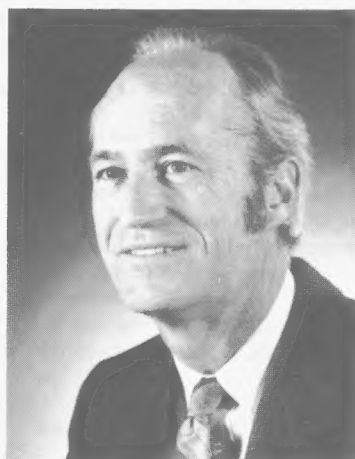

Watts Appointed Director of Budget and Statistics

On 30 July, Folio announced the merger of the Budget Planning Office with Institutional Research and Planning, under the leadership of Dick Spilsted.

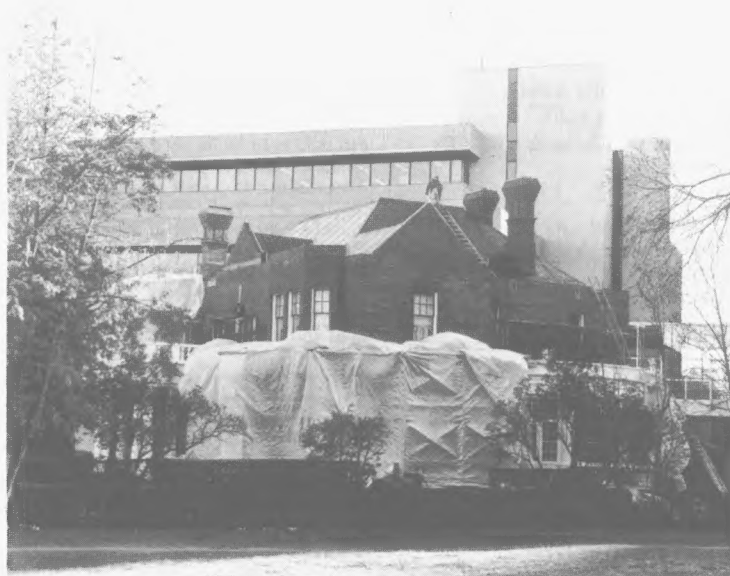

In anticipation of Mr. Spilsted's retirement on 31 December 1987, Allan Warrack, Vice-President (Administration), is pleased to announce the appointment of Peter Watts as Director of the Budget and Statistics Office, effective 1 January 1988. Mr. Watts joined the University in 1974 as Director of the Office of Administrative Systems.

The Vice-President (Administration) is also pleased to announce that Bill Cairns, formerly of Institutional Research and Planning, will serve in the capacity of Assistant Director of the newly-merged unit of Budget and Statistics. □

Putting the House in Order

Rutherford House, home of Alberta's first premier, is currently being "invisibly mended." The familiar Saskatchewan Drive building's brickwork, foundations, attic and roof are all being restored, and a conference room, reception area, kitchen and updated kitchen added. Rutherford House tenants are Alberta Culture staff and Friends of Rutherford House. Renovation work should be complete by Christmas.

University of Alberta, Yonsei University Conference Partners

The University of Alberta, in cooperation with the Institute of East and West Studies of Yonsei University, Seoul, Korea, will host the first-ever Canada-Korea conference, 13 and 14 November.

Sessions will revolve around the political and economic aspects of the relationship between Canada and Korea. Scholars in this area, and others who have Canada-Korea interests, will have the opportunity to discuss topics of concern not only about the economic relationship between the two countries, but also about the promotion of mutual understanding and friendship between Canadians and Koreans. The principal speakers will be faculty members from both universities.

Five sessions are scheduled: politics and economics of Canada; politics and economics of Korea; Asia-Pacific regional affairs; and Korea-Canada bilateral relations. The fifth and concluding session will be a round-table discussion on Canadian studies in Korea and Korean studies in Canada. All sessions will be held in the Alberta

Room of Lister Hall.

University of Alberta sponsorship of the conference comes from the Department of East Asian Languages and Literatures, the Canadian Studies Program, the East Asian Studies Committee, and the office of the Associate Vice-President (International Affairs). The federal Department of External Affairs has also provided funds as has the provincial Department of Federal and Intergovernmental Affairs.

The $30 registration fee includes a banquet and lunches. However individual sessions may be attended free of charge.

Alberta International, 432-2958, can respond to requests for additional information. □

Graduate Scholarships Named After Horowitz

Myer Horowitz and Dave Russell in the Back Room sounds ominous. Relax. Dr. Horowitz and Mr. Russell most certainly will because, in the company of invited colleagues and friends, they will acknowledge the establishment of The Myer Horowitz Graduate Student Scholarships.

Their meeting in the North Power Plant's Back Room tomorrow (30 October) at 4 p.m. will serve to put the scholarships in the mainstream of the University's graduate awards program. The scholarships, whose initial value is $1,000, will first be awarded in September 1988. They are intended for graduate students who do not hold a major award.

Recipients will be selected by members of the Student Awards Office and the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research.

While four trophies awarded by the Faculty of Physical Education and Recreation are named for Dr. Horowitz, this is the first time his name appears on a scholarship. The action was taken "to recognize the valuable contribution Myer Horowitz has made to the graduate student community, as a former graduate student, professor and president of the University of Alberta."

Dr. Horowitz doesn't take any credit for the establishment of the GSA in 1958-59 (he was a graduate student in educational administration), but he did attend the first organizational meeting.

Dr. Horowitz is the second president who is a University of Alberta graduate (Max Wyman is the other), and the only president who took a graduate program here (Dr. Wyman received his BSc here and his PhD at the California Institute of Technology).

The GSA initiated the scholarship by granting $30,000 to the University of Alberta. This endowment will be matched $2 to $1 by the provincial government's matching grants program. Additionally, the GSA will donate $2,000 annually, says association president Annette Richardson.

The idea for the scholarships came from John Inegbedion, former vice-president (external) of the GSA (he is studying for his PhD in political science at Dalhousie). GSA Council approved the proposal in July, and approved the name of scholarships in September.

Donations in support of The Myer Horowitz Graduate Students' Scholarships should be made payable to the University of Alberta and forwarded to the Graduate Students' Association, 206 North Power Plant. □

Australian Historian and Educator Comes Calling

Richard Joseph Selleck, professor of education at Monash University, Melbourne, Australia, will be visiting the Department of Educational Foundations as a Distinguished Visitor from 1 to 21 November.

Although Dr. Selleck's chosen field is the history and philosophy of education, his publications—six books and 30 articles—extend into the areas of colonial and progressive education, educational administration and education research. He is also co-editor of the History of Education Review and is a member of seven editorial boards.

Dr. Selleck will give public lectures on "The Manchester Statistical Society: The Beginnings of Educational and Social Research" (12 November, 3:30 to 5 p.m., 158 Education South) and "Educational Funding in Australia: the Catholic School Phenomenon" (19 November, 3:30 to 5 p.m., 158 Education South). He will give several seminars, including one on "Industrial Schools and Reformatory Research," and will visit a number of graduate and undergraduate classes as a guest lecturer.

Students and staff members interested in the technique, source and methodological problems of local history writing as well as Dr. Selleck's other areas of research are invited to meet him. His office will be in 5-168 Education North, telephone 432-2556.

Further information on Dr. Selleck's visit can be obtained from Robert Carney (432-3726). □

Soil Scientists Pay Tribute to Newton and His Legacy

John Dawson Newton's time at the University of Alberta spanned the years 1922 to 1959. He was a professor of soil science whose achievements are notable because they are far-reaching and durable. He helped develop the Alberta Soil Survey; along with Frank Wyatt, he established the University of Alberta Breton Plots in 1930; he discovered that sulfur deficiency limited growth and yield of crops on some Gray Luvisolic soils in Alberta; and he made a similar discovery about molybdenum in tropical soils.

An appreciative audience was reminded of these accomplishments and more (he supervised or served on the committees of 31 MSc and PhD graduates in the Department of Soils) at a dedication ceremony in the Earth Sciences Building, 20 October.

Eelen Newton unveiled a plaque which identifies the former Earth Sciences Reading Room as the John Dawson Newton Soil Science Collection. Mrs. Newton, who lives in Vancouver, was accompanied by two daughters and a son.

The collection, located on the fourth floor of Earth Sciences, features a number of soil monoliths that were assembled in 1927 for the first International Congress of Soil Science.

Dr. Newton was appointed to the Department of Soils in 1922 and later served as department head.

Allan Warrack, Vice-President (Administration), was one of the last students to take Dr. Newton's basic soil science course. That was in 1958-59 (Dr. Newton retired in 1959 and died in 1981 at the age of 87). He remembered that Dr. Newton would list what he planned to cover in the top left-hand corner of the blackboard and realize his intentions virtually every time out. □

Hewlett-Packard Donates Computer System

A $50,000 computer system is the most recent example of the continuing cooperation between Hewlett-Packard (Canada) Ltd. and the University of Alberta during the last 10 years.

The donation consists of an HP9000 Model 320 computer system which is being used for applications of artificial intelligence and expert systems. The Model 320 is a state-of-the-art system that provides the Department of Chemical Engineering with an excellent basis for engineering calculations and real time sensor-based computer applications.

The University is one of the first institutions in Western Canada to receive the system.

The LISP and NMODE software included in the donation means that the 9000 system can provide a basis for development and demonstration of applications of artificial intelligence and expert systems.

In a letter to Grant Fisher (Chemical Engineering), Susanne Sharuga, Hewlett-Packard district sales manager, computer systems, says the donation was made in the hope that it will provide "a means to enhance and extend your teaching and research."

Should their gift-in-kind receive a matching grant from the provincial government, Hewlett-Packard officials would like to see the grant "used to support teaching and research in the same area of computer process control as is supported by the HP9000." □

Sir Walter: a Classic, in His Own Lifetime

(Folio visits the "Great Scott!" exhibit on campus.)

You could make a great soap out of the life of Walter Scott (1771-1832). His birth, in beautiful 18th century Edinburgh, a centre of the civilized, English-speaking world. The shadow of death hovering over the infant Walter, leaving him lame for life with polio. The schoolboy with the enormous, rambling love of reading. The bright young lawyer, courting his true love for three years, only to be ditched for another. The dashing man on horseback, raising loyal Scots against Napoleon. The well-connected gentleman, writing poetry that actually sells.

The ultimate in making fiction become fact, Walter Scott created a Scotland that you'd never find on a map, before he wrote his novels and plays. He bought his own "castle" and renamed it Abbotsford. By then, he could wine and dine with royalty, writing best-selling novels under assumed names. He didn't need any more publicity.

It was a tough lifestyle to maintain. At the age of 52, he suffered his first stroke. Three years later came personal bankruptcy, and then, mere months later, the death of his wife, Charlotte, after 29 years together.

Sir Walter—created a baron in 1820—was translated, dramatized, turned into opera, and imitated. "They may do their fooling with better grace," he once commented. "But I do it more natural."

"Great Scott!" continues at the Bruce Peel Special Collections Library until 27 November. □

Spirit of Saint-Jean's Founder Infuses Anniversary Celebrations

As part of the recent celebrations surrounding the 10th anniversary of Faculté Saint-Jean, a portrait of the founder of Saint-Jean was unveiled.

In 1908, a French Oblate named André Daridon opened the Juniorat Saint-Jean in Pincher Creek. The following year, the institution moved to Edmonton. It became the Collège Saint-Jean, then the Collège Universitaire Saint-Jean before its integration into the University of Alberta 10 years ago.

In the accompanying photograph, Father Félix Vallé, representing the Oblates, is congratulated by Dean Jean-Antoine Bour shortly after the unveiling. □

'What do You Have on The Young Offenders Act?'

Liberal justice critic Robert Kaplan visited the Legal Resource Centre on 19 October. A staunch advocate of public legal education, Mr. Kaplan wants the Mulroney government to make a full-scale commitment to the access to legal information fund which was started in 1984 as a three-year pilot project and has since been granted a one-year extension. "The benefits are extremely worthwhile across Canada," he says. Mr. Kaplan (centre) learns about the centre's modus operandi from its director, Lois Gander, and Dennis Foth, Dean of Extension.

Gulli and Cavallo Join Forces for Kilburn Memorial Concert

Franco Gulli, violinist, and Enrica Cavallo, pianist, are the distinguished performers at this year's Nicholas Arthur Kilburn Memorial Concert* to be held on Friday, 6 November, at 8 p.m. in Convocation Hall.

Internationally recognized as one of today's finest violinists, Franco Gulli has performed with all the principal orchestras of Europe, as well as those of the Soviet Union and the Orient. He records extensively, and won the Grand Prix du Disque for his recording of the Mendelssohn Violin Concerto.

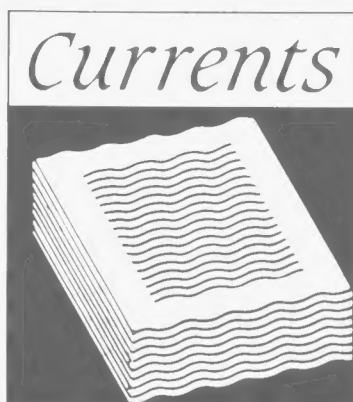

Enrica Cavallo has appeared as guest soloist with many major European orchestras and at all the leading European music festivals. A major item in her solo repertoire is J.S. Bach's "Well-Tempered Clavier" and her performances of this piece have been widely acclaimed. Currently Miss Cavallo is artist-in-residence at the University of Indiana in Bloomington.

The program consists of "Sonata in G Major for Violin and Piano, K301" (Mozart), "Sonata in D Minor for Violin and Piano, Opus 108" (Brahms), and "Sonata in B Minor" (Ottorino Respighi).

This concert promises to be the high point of the Music Department's 1987-88 season. Tickets are now available from the Department of Music, 3-82 Fine Arts. First-come, first-served. No reserve seating.

Unfortunately, owing to the restoration of the Arts Building, there is no wheelchair access to Convocation Hall.

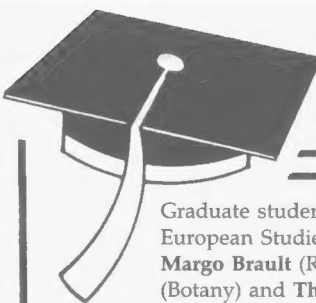

*This annual concert series is funded through an endowment from Peter Kilburn, in memory of his father, Nicholas Kilburn, a member of the Board of Governors in the 1920s. □

Activities

Graduate students Allan Reid (Slavic and East European Studies), C.A. Elizabeth Luus (Psychology), Margo Brault (Romance Languages), Guichang Zhand (Botany) and Theresa Beckie (Nursing) will be among the (paper) presenters at Colloquium '87. The event, part of the University's National Universities Week celebrations, runs from 9 a.m. to noon, 30 October, in the North Power Plant . . .

At the recent 40th Canadian Geotechnical Conference, N.R. Morgenstern (University Professor) was co-recipient with W. Savigny (UBC) of both the Roger J.E. Brown Memorial Award for outstanding contributions to permafrost science and engineering and the Thomas Roy Award in recognition of contributions to engineering geology in Canada. The works recognized in this way were the outcome of Dr. Savigny's doctoral research in the Department of Civil Engineering . . .

Terry White is Brock-bound. The Dean of Arts will assume the presidency of Brock University in St. Catharines, Ontario, on 1 July 1988. In notifying members of the Faculty of his decision, Dean White said, "I deeply value the associations and experiences I have had working with colleagues during my time in Edmonton, and will always have the highest regard for the academic achievements of members of the Faculty of Arts in the University of Alberta" . . . An exhibition and sale of native arts and crafts from the Indonesian island of Bali continues to 5 November at the Kathleen Lavery Gallery. In conjunction with the exhibition, Pat Rafferty (Education) has spent much time in Bali interviewing artists and educators and observing the integration of classical art forms into current cultural modes of expression . . . Clarence Preitz (Industrial and Vocational Education) received a Distinguished Service Citation at the Industrial Education Specialist Council provincial meeting on 17 October in Calgary. The award was made on behalf of the board of directors at Epsilon Pi Tau, the International Honorary Professional Fraternity for Education in Technology.

11. Other Business

For information concerning this agenda, members of the University community may telephone the Secretary to GFC (432-5430).

Selection Committee for Chairman of Finance and Management Science Invites Input

A selection committee for Chairman, Department of Finance and Management Science, has been established. Anyone wishing to make suggestions/comments to this committee should do so before 31 December 1987, by writing to R.S. Smith, Dean, Faculty of Business, 4-40 Business Building.

Faculty Breakfast and Dialogue

The Catholic Campus Ministry invites members of the University community to the second monthly gathering, 4 November. Time: 7:45 to 8:45 a.m. Place: St. Joseph's College, Faculty Lounge. Topic: "Reading the Classics of the Physical Sciences." Wytze Brouwer will lead the session. Come and bring a friend.

Book Sale-Political Science

On November 4, 5 and 6, a book sale featuring political science and social science books and journals will take place in 12-15 Tory Building (Political Science Reading Room).

The sale will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. Prices will range from 50 cents to $5. Early sale buyers will be given the opportunity to acquire valuable books and journals free from a "free table."

Campus Reviews

As part of the process of carrying out systematic reviews under the guidance of the President's Advisory Committee on Campus Reviews (PACCR), the Department of Botany is completing the self study phase of the review process. The other major phase of the process is the site visit and assessment by the Unit Review Committee. In preparation for this second phase, PACCR invites written comment prior to 13 November 1987.

Submissions are for the use of the Unit Review Committee and will be held in confidence by the members of that committee. Submissions should be sent to: Mrs. Shirley Moore, Coordinator, PACCR Office, W4-13 Chemistry Building, Attention: The Botany Unit Review Committee.

John and Shirley Wright to be Honored

The Library Science Alumni Association invites former students, friends and colleagues to a reception in honor of John and Shirley Wright on the occasion of their retirement.

The reception will take place Thursday, 12 November, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the Faculty Club (Upper Lounge).

RSVP by 6 November to the Faculty of Library Science, 432-4578/4140.

(In lieu of gifts, donations to the Library Science Alumni Scholarship Fund would be appreciated. Donations may be sent to the Faculty of Library Science, 3-20 Rutherford South.)

University in Employment Equity Act's Sphere

The Employment Equity Act was passed by the federal government in 1986. The purpose of the Act, as stated in Section 2, is: "To achieve equality in the workplace so that no person shall be denied employment opportunities or benefits for reasons unrelated to ability and in the fulfillment of that goal, to correct the conditions of disadvantages in employment experienced by women, aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities and persons who are, because of their race, or colour, in a visible minority in Canada by giving effect to the principle that employment equity means more than treating persons in the same way but also requires special measures and the accommodation of differences."

This Act gave rise to the Federal Government Employment Equity Program and the Federal Contractors Program. These action-oriented programs have a common objective—to significantly improve the workplace by broadening the base of qualified individuals available for employment, training, and promotion. This means that persons to the employment of formerly disadvantaged groups will be removed making them fully eligible for work for which they are qualified, says Doris Badir, Special Assistant to the President.

Both programs enable special measures to be introduced when it is necessary to achieve and maintain a representative work force.

University of Alberta Involvement

During the summer of 1986, the federal government announced that universities holding contracts with the government in excess of $200,000 would be required to conform to the Act. While the University of Alberta does not at present hold a single contract in excess of this amount, it is necessary for the University to have committed itself to the principles of the Act before such a contract could be awarded. The University, Professor Badir points out, signed the commitment in March 1987. "It did so for two very important reasons: the first being that it felt that it was already conforming to the principles set out in the Act; and that this would confirm it and second its wish to be in a position that should there be the opportunity for a $200,000 research contract to come to the University, there would be no holdup because the University hadn't made the necessary commitment," Professor Badir states.

Folio will discuss in a later issue what this development means in terms of the University's current program. □

Writing Competence Petitions: Notice to Students

This notice is intended for students who have not met the University's writing competence requirement and whose deadline for meeting that requirement occurs 1 January 1988. Students who do not pass the writing competence test by their deadline will have their registrations cancelled prior to the start of classes unless granted an extension by the GFC Writing Competence Petitions Committee (WCPC).

If your deadline is 1 January 1988 and you plan to register in the Winter term or in a subsequent session, you may petition the WCPC in November provided that you are currently registered and have written the writing competence test at least once. Students are urged to seek advice on preparing their writing competence petitions. Such advice can be sought from the Student Ombudsmen, Room 278, Students' Union Building (432-4689). The Student Adviser's Office (300 Athabasca Hall) is offering information seminars on preparing petitions; call 432-4145 for dates and times or for an information pamphlet.

The regulations and procedures used by the GFC Writing Competence Petitions Committee are available in either of the above-noted offices.

Petitions must be received in the University Secretariat, 2-5 University Hall, by Thursday, 5 November 1987, 4:30 p.m.

Communications for all Who Travel

The private sector is embracing a new technology that is changing the way people communicate: Cellular telephones are now standard equipment for anyone who spends time in the field.

No longer "a box connected by a wire to the wall", the cellular phone has no wire and walls, so you're always in touch with important people and important matters.

There are costs involved with cellular telephones. They do not come free, but the costs are justified through established benefits to department needs.

We believe that with your input we can prove the benefit of establishing an available pool of telephones in the University, which can be accessed as and when needed.

A seminar will be held shortly to discuss this in depth. Please call Kevin Moodie, 432-4261, for information. We will then follow this up and issue an invitation to you to come to the seminar.
